Don’t keel over!
On June 13 and 14, two cranes lifted boats into the Kincardine Marina from the Station Beach parking lot. Boaters have been anxiously awaiting the start of boating season, since COVID-19 restrictions were lifted on the opening of marinas. (Submitted by Dave Jewett)
A message of beauty

Residents from Trillium Court proudly displayed a banner of positivity and beauty in the atrium. The banner, decorated with flowers and butterflies, included the words “With all the loving support, we are here at Trillium Court. We will get through the Corona virus – we just need a bouquet of iris.” (Submitted photo)
Residents take part in Kincardine Kneels

(Above) Hundreds of Kincardine residents took to their front lawns on June 8 at 7 p.m., to take part in Kincardine Kneels. The initiative called on residents to take a knee against racism. (Left) Sylvia Berg knelt and displayed her sign of support while friends on Queen Street showed their support on their front lawn. (Tammy Schneider photo)
